Rajiv Menon- The Storyteller

4K (Kandukondain Kandukondain), a Tamil movie, was a classic! It was almost perfect. I say 'almost', that is something you'll understand. It was in the class of another movie of late 60s, - Thillana Mohanambal, another almost perfect film.

4K had everything in it. It had a story, characters, songs, melody, beauty, trust, betrayal, love, romance, poetry, color, human element, and so on. It was a 'thali' of all ingredients. It was the perfect meal for the Indian audience.

And it was directed by none other than Rajiv Menon- The Master Storyteller. We at RCM were honored by his presence at our meeting last Saturday, quizzed by the charming Chair of the Programs Committee, Rtn. PP. Rani Muralidharan.

Rajiv Menon, it seems, is a 360 degrees person. He is an all-rounder. Along with his spouse Latha Menon, he initially made his mark as a cinematographer, starting with making commercial ads for a number of large corporates and MNC's including the likes of Coke etc, prior to foraying into music, acting, direction and storytelling.

He spoke extensively on a number of subjects, and it would be impossible to fit in all within a couple of pages in this article.

I will be doing him a disfavor by trying to capture a larger than life character in a few paragraphs. He was a wealth of information. He spoke on everything from the Ramayana and Mahabharata to Aristotle's Greek Tragedies to Charles Dickens and William Shakespeare!

This was in the context of the origin of storytelling from Neanderthal times, from Ice/Stone age, when stories were narrated, by the fireside. More recently, our grandmothers are the latest entrepreneurs of storytelling passed on through generations.

Lately, of course, it has become an art, a profession, and a popular one at that, and highly remunerative. It requires a wide expanse of mind, a vivid imagination, and a complete understanding of the psyche of the target audience.

If you do not possess these qualities, you cannot become a successful storyteller and a filmmaker. He cited the example of the competition within filmmaking, with OTT being the newest 'Villain' in the scene.

Rajiv says that OTT in the Film industry is a game changer of our times. He narrated how an analysis of the viewership of "House of Cards" (An American Political Drama) and "Downton Abbey" (A story of British Royalty) brought about the creation of the major hit of recent times, "The Crown".

It just goes to prove how evolved storytelling and filmmaking have become, with OTT becoming a part of the mix. As laypeople, we go to movies or watch a series, and for a few hours, we lose ourselves in the make-believe world of celluloid. You can imagine what it takes to create an ambience to keep millions glued to the screen.

Rajiv Menon is one of those who make that happen. He has to look out for every aspect, from the eyebrows of the heroine, to the sky. He cannot afford to miss out on anything. The viewer is supreme. Their needs are to be catered to.

'Films need to be visually appealing,' Rajiv says. The colors on the screen need to be compatible to the context. One cannot have greenery in a riotous scene or darkness in a romantic shot. The visual energy must reach the viewer.

He has another unique approach. His stories and movies have no "Villains". He says that, mostly, situations in life and stories are the real villains. In a way, I quite agree. We go through a number of happenings in life, both under our control and out of it, to warrant such a thought. You don't need a third party to play mischief. We are the architects of our own destiny and shall survive or perish by our own thoughts and actions. So, he lets the handling of the situation of his characters, dictate the course of his stories.

Rajiv's take on today's films is that they are the reflection of the times we live in. The success of the film depends on how close it is to reality.

There was a startling statement that he made, regarding today's younger generation and their preferences. He says that the old genre of movies, where boy meets girl, falls in love, fights for her, overcomes obstacles and marries her, is an old adage. Today, marrying the girl or boy in the final scene is not a must. He relates it to the younger generation preferring to stay single, as marriage is not such a large component of life. It just shows the changes that affect the times we live in and the social changes that have come about. Truly a mind-blowing analytic mined out of viewer preferences!

I can go on and on but, I'll wind up here. It was a fascinating dialogue, and many thanks to Rajiv Menon's walking mate, President Rtn. G. Chella Krishna, Rtn. PP. Rani Muraidharan and the Programs committee, for bringing in a remarkable storyteller!

Mediating in the Midst of Manipur Mayhem

Justice Kannan Krishnamoorthy(Retd.) is a former Judge of the Punjab and Haryana High Court. He currently serves as the Chairman of the Railway Claims Tribunal (RCT) at the Principal Bench at New Delhi, India. He is also the Founder-Director of Madhyastham, a mediation center based in Chennai.

Justice Kannan Krishnamoorthy pursued Economics at Loyola College, Chennai, and then studied Law at the Government Law College at Pondicherry. Having enrolled in 1977, he went on to build a formidable practice in civil law. In 2008, Mr. Kannan was designated as a Senior Counsel and later elevated to the Madras High Court as a Judge in July of the same year. He was subsequently transferred to the Punjab and Haryana High Court, where he served for a decade.

To quote a scholar, who was asked to introduce Justice Kannan, his justice “has been justice of law, justice of fairness, justice of pragmatism, justice with intellectual depth and above all, justice from his Lordship’s heart.”

Justice Kannan is a member of the ‘Independent People’s Tribunal on Manipur’, constituted by the People’s Union for Civil Liberties (PUCL

A set of Jury Members of the Tribunal including Justice Kannan visited Manipur. The team travelled to various districts affected by the violence, including Bishnupur, Chura-chandpur, Imphal, Kangpokpi, Kachhing, Senapati and other places, to record personal testimonies of survivors/victims of the different communities and the various service organizations which are organising and providing relief to affected people.

The Independent People’s Tribunal on Manipur will place their findings in the form of a ‘Report to the Nation’ within the next few months. This Report will also contain the recommendations with a view to ensure accountability, justice and redressal for the people of Manipur.

Justice Kannan gave a passionate rendition of the hidden horrors of the Manipur communal riots in 2023, and their judicial background.

Manipur is a hilly area, with 72% of the region being mountainous and the rest covered by plains. Of the total population, about 41 to 43% are tribal. The tribal population is clearly the predominant community. Tribes are not uneducated, they are happy with their own clans, and there is little for the courts to intervene in their affairs.

Justice Kannan explained that reservation is employed to empower a smaller section of people who are a minority in a given region. If the castes which hold majority are given reservation, then the concept does not make sense. There would be no democratic value in that reservation. This is the core of the Meitei - Kuki conflict.

The riots in Manipur were an aftermath of a High Court judgment. This occurred during the hearing of a petition filed by members of the Meitei Tribe Union. It was this order given by the Manipur High Court Acting Chief Justice asking the Manipur government to “consider inclusion of the Meitei community in the Scheduled Tribe (ST) list” that has been assessed to be the trigger for the explosion of ethnic violence that had ensued between the tribal and the non-tribal communities. The said judgment had also asked the State Government to send a recommendation to the Centre within four weeks, on the demand for ST status to the community.

According to Justice Kannan, if this situation continues unsupervised, then we will have another Syria here in India. The children have not been in school for the past 15 months. This will create a generation of students who will be uneducated like in Syria, where no one has been to school for 25 years.

A protest march against the said judgment taken out by the tribal community in Churachandpur district of Manipur, was reportedly attacked by some from the Meitei community and widespread violence across the north eastern state was the result.

Subsequently, a Bench of CJI Chandrachud and Justices PS Narasimha and JB Pardiwala had taken a grim view of the aforementioned judgment, terming the same to be “factually incorrect” as well as against the principles laid down by the Supreme Court Constitution bench judgments on the classification of communities as Scheduled Castes or Scheduled Tribes.

The violence intensified after a video of two Kuki women being paraded naked by Meitei men shortly after their village was razed, went viral on the internet.

During his visit to Manipur, Justice Kannan witnessed the economic blockades imposed, whereby the Kukis have to take a detour of about 750 kms to travel within Manipur to avoid straying into Meitei-dominated areas. They are all suffering and this has caused a communal divide among people, who were previously amicable and lived in harmony.

According to Justice Kannan, if this situation continues unsupervised, then we will have another Syria here in India. The children have not been in school for the past 15 months. This will create a generation of students who will be uneducated like in Syria, where no one has been to school for 25 years.

“Tread carefully; as much as the path is made of roses, it has its fair share of thorns as well.”

Commencement of Lake Restoration Project at Old Perungalathur Lake

On Tuesday, October 8, the Rotary Club of Madras (RCM) inaugurated the restoration project for the 64-acre Old Perungalathur Lake. Once a vital source for the community, Old Perungalathur Lake is currently plagued by pollution, encroachment and unsustainable activities that have deteriorated its water quality, leaving it disused.

The Bhoomi Pooja was conducted with President Rtn. G. Chella Krishna flagging off the JCB, in the presence of local community and government officials, to begin the restoration works.

The event was attended by MLA S. R. Raja, Tambaram Mayor Tmt. K. Vasanthakumari, and Deputy Mayor Thiru. G. Kamaraj, Thiru. Kamaraj D, MC - Zonal Chairman, Thiru. Sekar S, MC - Chairman of the Nominating Committee, Thiru. P. Pugazhenthii, MC - Tambaram Corporation, Tmt. S. Kamala, MC - Ward 57; Tmt. S. Madhumitha, MC - Ward 58; and Thiru. Mr. Senthur Pari, Project Partner and President of ExNoRa welcomed the gathering, which was followed by Rtn. PP. P.N. Mohan who spoke about the project.

Rtn. IPP. Ravi Sundaresan called on the residents to protect Old Perungalathur Lake after its restoration and highlighted how it was now their responsibility to care for the delicate water body. On behalf of RCM, he thanked Rtn. PP. Ranjit Pratap for his generous donation toward the lake restoration project and Rtn. PP. P.N. Mohan for his coordination efforts throughout the project's journey.

Rtn. Dr. Anuradha Ganesan, Director of Community Services 1, highlighted some of RCM's large-scale projects, such as the Polio Program, Homes for Homeless Project, WASH Project, Balwadis and the Mammogram Project, and emphasized RCM's spirit of service. She urged the community to protect the lake once it is restored, by keeping it clean and preventing sewage from entering the lake.

Tambram MLA Thiru. S. R. Raja thanked RCM for taking up the project and specifically thanked Rtn. PP. P.N. Mohan for dedicating many hours to the project. He assured RCM of his support for this lake and any future projects.

Mr. Senthur Pari praised RCM for its ongoing commitment to restoring multiple water bodies and expressed hope for more such collaborations and transformations.

The vote of thanks was delivered by Mr. V. Subramani, the Treasurer of ExNoRa.

Rotary Nostalgia

The Matter of Attendance

Attendance was a matter of importance to Rotary for quite a few decades. The rule was that Rotarians had to have a minimum attendance of at least 60 per cent, which had to comprise home club meetings as a majority, with allowance to make up the deficit by attending some meetings at other clubs. The attendance norms still exist on paper, but their monitoring has been diluted worldwide to a great extent.

Until a few years ago, it was necessary for Rotarians who were visiting other clubs to collect an attendance card signed by the host club's President and Secretary and submit it at their home clubs for attendance credit to be given. Attendance cards still exist but few bother with collecting them. What does remain is the attendance book, which each Rotarian is expected to sign on arrival at his/her club's meeting.

At the Rotary Club of Madras the attendance book is still kept open for members to sign on arrival, and guests are issued their cards after their presence at the meeting has been recognised by the Secretary and they have been welcomed. But there was a time when attendance was almost like it was at school. And that was the way till the 1970s.

Adhering to Attendance

As early as in the 1940s, AA Hayles, a charter member and then Editor of 'The Madras Mail,' had proudly noted how just a glance at the newsletter would account for the entire membership. Bulletins invariably started off with attendance details and the classification of the splits was revealing – Present, Apologies (those who had warned in of their absence), and lastly Absents and Silents (those who just did not make it). A statistical perusal reveals that the last category was invariably the highest. But the Club was strict. If a member did not make it to three meetings in a row, he was politely asked to leave. And there was no quarter given.

Members were encouraged to make up attendance by going for meetings at other Rotary Clubs, but given that there were no others in the city till the Rotary Club of Madras South began the trend, it meant only those who travelled frequently could do so. That many did, is clear from the column 'Our Members At Other Clubs' which gave out details of which Rotarian attended a meeting at which other club on what date, these being backed up by attendance proof from those clubs, of course. Despite all of this, some did manage to become 100 per centers.

The 'Rotarian' magazine of September 1959 writes of Prof. S. K. Ekambaram, of a Club in Mysore, who thought nothing of jumping on to the Bangalore Express from Madras, breaking the journey at Katpadi, driving from there to Vellore, returning to Katpadi and boarding the Bangalore Mail in order to eventually reach Bangalore and then from there to Mysore! The Club newsletter stopped publishing attendance statistics in 1984.

Despite the best efforts to make programmes interesting, abstention was high. Attendance, therefore, remained important enough for it to be a subject of a talk as well. The venerable S. S. T. Chari, one of the early Indian directors of Best & Co, spoke on 'Some Thoughts on Rotary Attendance' on April 5, 1960. This was the time when the Club realized that many of its members were not attending at least 60 per cent of the duration of a meeting they had come for. The Lighthouse frequently exhorted members to attend the meetings regularly and, more importantly, to stay on till the end. One of these appeared in the issue of April 12, 1960 and had been taken from a Rotary International missive.

It is worth quoting the following: " 'Ducks' are Rotarians sufficiently concerned about their attendance record to put in an appearance at meetings, but after endowing their fellow Rotarians with their presence for a while, they duck out.

Some hang their heads like whipped stepchildren and slither out of the door. Others glance ostentatiously at their watches and huff and puff out of the door. Still others pick out some totally disinterested person and advise him, "Must leave early, business calls." Most of this is unadulterated porcine detergent – hogwash to you!

We all have business problems, and we all have contingencies to meet, but if we are really interested in Rotary, we can spare the time for the weekly meeting!"

Sage words, which still make relevant reading. Attendance would remain a vexatious issue. In a creative twist, Rtn. P. N. Ethiraj suggested on December 12, 1960 that each Rotarian apply the four-way test to attendance:

1. Is my absence due to a true reason?
2. Is it fair to all fellow Rotarians who come to enjoy fellowship?
3. Will it build goodwill and better friendship?
4. Is it beneficial to all concerned?

The Club went to the extent of publishing member-wise statistics in one of its Lighthouse issues and agonized over what could be done with Rtn. K. Easwaran of the renowned Easun Group, for his attendance percentage was never above single digits. Eventually, the axe, by way of Section 2 of Article IV of the Club, fell on him, as it did on many others over the years. "Chronic and incorrigible absentees are being removed from the rolls one by one," gloated the newsletter of January 31, 1961.
