MARCH: WATER,SANITATION & HYGEINE MONTH

Date 01 MAR,2025

Water, sanitation and hygiene (WASH)

829 000 people die each year from diarrhea as a result of unsafe drinking-water, sanitation, and hand hygiene. Safe drinking-water, sanitation and hygiene are crucial to human health and well-being.

Safe WASH is not only a prerequisite to health, but contributes to livelihoods, school attendance and dignity and helps to create resilient communities living in healthy environments.

Drinking unsafe water impairs health through illnesses such as diarrhea, and untreated excreta contaminates ground waters and surface waters used for drinking-water, irrigation, bathing and household purposes. Chemical contamination of water continues to pose a health burden, whether natural in origin such as arsenic and fluoride, or anthropogenic such as nitrate.

Safe and sufficient. WASH plays a key role in preventing numerous NTDs such as trachoma, soil-transmitted helminths and schistosomiasis. Diarrheal deaths as a result of inadequate WASH were reduced by half during the Millennium Development Goal (MDG) period (1990-2015), with the significant progress on water and sanitation provision playing a key role Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) for 2015; under the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) for the post-2015 period, Member States of the United Nations (UN) aspire to achieve universal access to WASH by 2030. The Human Right to Safe Drinking Water and Sanitation (HRTWS) was adopted in 2010 under a UN resolution calling for safe, affordable, acceptable, available, and accessible drinking water and sanitation services for all.

Water-Borne Diseases and their Impact

The pathogenic microorganisms, their toxic exudates, and other contaminants together, cause serious conditions such as cholera, diarrhea, typhoid, amebiasis, hepatitis, gastroenteritis, giardiasis, campylobacteriosis, scabies, and worm infections, to name a few. While diarrhea and vomiting are the most commonly reported symptoms of waterborne illness, other symptoms can include skin, ear, respiratory, or eye problems. Waterborne diseases are illnesses caused due to consumption of contaminated water, either directly or through food made with it.

HOW TO PREVENT WATER-BORNE DISEASES

DRINKING CLEAN AND PURIFIED WATER, Don't ingest water while swimming, Avoid drinking water straight from ponds, lakes, or rivers. Never consume tap water. To purify the water for consumption, use filters or RO.
