What Is Polio?

Children under five are typically affected by highly contagious poliomyelitis, mostly called the poliovirus. People contract the virus from one another, usually by drinking tainted water. It has the potential to assault the nervous system and cause paralysis in some instances. Even though there is no cure, Rotary and our partners have immunized over 2.5 billion children globally using a safe and effective vaccine.

On March 27, 2014, India was officially declared polio-free, along with the rest of the South-East Asia Region. Ten years later, for a country once considered the most difficult to bring to zero cases, it's a significant achievement of historical importance. Back then, India accounted for over 60% of all global polio cases until 2009.

Rotary has played a crucial role in India's success by reaching vaccine-hesitant and remote populations in communities throughout the country to raise awareness about vaccination campaigns and the benefits of immunization. India has not had a case single case of wild poliovirus since 2011.

Under the aegis of Rotary International's PolioPlus programme and the India PolioPlus Committee (INPPC), Rotary members across India have been working actively involved in Polio Eradication efforts in their respective states. Rotary volunteers in India have been the grassroots agents of change in the movement, who through their unwavering commitment, helped in overcoming cultural, geographical and socio-political challenges to reach every community with the vaccine. The INPPC recruits volunteers, mobilizes society, raises funds, and raises awareness to promote the polio vaccine in India. The Government of India had adopted the National Immunization Days (NIDs) in 1995, and the initiative continues even today. As a part of the annual NIDs and bi-annual Sub-NIDs, Rotary volunteers continue to contribute to immunization efforts in their respective communities nationwide.
