Quote

Don't misunderstand me - we are not going to end polio or bring peace to the world by waving a wand and saying some funny words. That might mean changing how things are done in your district. "If your district has been doing things one way for 50 years, it's probably time to reassess. If a club in your district isn't active or is losing members, maybe it's time to start a new club that fits better with the community. Just because a club or district hasn't changed in a while doesn't mean no one is hungry for change."

Humility

Cricketer Rahul Dravid was honoured with a doctorate degree by the University of Bangalore, which Rahul Dravid gracefully returned. Not only did he give back the degree, but he also gave a wonderful speech; he said "My wife is a doctor, she has spent countless, sleepless nights and days to get this degree." "My mother is a professor of arts, she has waited for a long, fifty years for her degree with perseverance. I worked hard to play cricket, but I didn't study that much, so how come I accept this degree?"

Einstein was offered the Prime Ministership by the Israeli government in 1952. Einstein politely said, "I am an inexperienced student of physics. What do I understand about the governance and administration of a state !!!"

Grigori Perelman, the Russian world-renowned mathematician, he returned the Field Medals in 2006 and a large sum of money, regarded as the equivalent of Nobel Prize in the field of Mathematics. He said "We had a poverty driven childhood in our family. We had to manage in a very calculative manner to save mother's earnings. May be, that's the reason why I was able to develop a little skill in mathematics since childhood. Since that phase of poverty is not there anymore in my life, what do I do with so much of money?"

Seeing the humility of these greatly skilled people, one feels to bow down in respect.

These humble and down to earth people remind us over and over again that being humble does not mean one gets less dignified in the eyes of the society, rather it portrays in them a much larger than life image. As there is a saying 'Sky is the limit for humility while there is no limit at all to stoop down to any level. (From WhatsApp)

ROTARY INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION – SINGAPORE 2024

Rotary International Convention was held at Singapore from May 25 to 29, 2024, opened with grand cultural events. RI President R. Gordon R. McInally addresses the closing general session of the 2024 Rotary International Convention in Singapore.

The 2024 Rotary International Convention in Singapore began with a sweeping global vision, as international humanitarian Graça Machel and Rotary International President R. Gordon R. McInally called on people to take action to make the world more equitable and more peaceful.

Machel, the co-founder of the global leadership group The Elders, who is renowned for her work on behalf of women and children, urged attendees at the opening session of the convention to work for equality for women and equal access to education for girls.

McInally called on the convention participants to promote peace through their work with Rotary. He also spoke about his commitment to improving mental health and well-being around the world, a key initiative of his presidential term. McInally's focus on mental health was reflected in several of the convention's breakout sessions, and Rotary's other areas of focus were featured in a variety of projects and community events before the convention.

Barry Rassin, chair of The Rotary Foundation Board of Trustees, announces the winner of the US$2 million Programmes of Scale grant will support members' work with Indian farmers who have been affected by climate change.

The programme, Partners for Water Access and Better Harvests in India, will aim to increase groundwater tables, extend cultivation areas and raise the incomes of about 60,000 farmers by 25% to 30%. Partners for Water Access and Better Harvests in India will build rainwater collection systems such as check dams and ponds to increase groundwater tables by 10% to 15% each year in four states. It will also work to reduce soil erosion on about 4,100 hectares (more than 10,000 acres) of land by introducing drip irrigation and planting native species and fruit trees.

During his address to the convention attendees John Hewko shared five ways Rotary members can revolutionise Rotary.

1. Make your club brand new: think of ways to address your club's challenges
2. Embrace new club models
3. Focus on achieving more by doing less: focus your resources on well-planned projects based on community assessments
4. Look for and find allies everywhere
5. Embrace new technologies

"When it comes to growing our membership, we can't wait around for someone to provide us with a magical solution. Each of us needs to take the initiative. Because we all have the potential to address this issue, we have the potential to be an organisation that constantly evolves to reflect a changing world. How can you evolve your club or projects?"

The Rotary Healthy Communities Challenge, launched by Rotary International in partnership with the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation and World Vision, was also formally announced at the convention. The US$30 million programme will address some of the deadliest childhood diseases in four African countries: the Democratic Republic of Congo, Mozambique, Nigeria and Zambia. Obinna Onyekwena, the deputy director of programme advocacy and communications for the Gates Foundation, introduced the programme and presented a video address by Bill Gates.

"This programme will empower Rotary members in target countries with resources to implement large-scale interventions, focusing on reducing deaths from malaria, pneumonia and diarrhoea - the greatest threats to children under five," Onyekwena said. "I'm Nigerian, born and raised, so believe me when I say I know this work will change lives in my home country and far beyond."
