RTN. MANJEET KRIPALANI IN A FIRESIDE CHAT WITH MR. RAVI KANT, AUTHOR AND FORMER CEO, TATA MOTORS, ON HIS BOOK LEADING FROM THE BACK

Rtn. Manjeet Kripalani:

Ravi, as you reminded me this week, the corporate initiative is 250 years old. Is it the first time that such an idea of management is being articulated as a concept in a book?

Mr. Ravi Kant:

Yes, 'corporates' as we know them today have existed only for about 200 to 250 years. Although we think they've been there forever, they were created after the Industrial Revolution of the 17th and 18th centuries in the UK and Europe, when organisations grew and needed a proper structure with leadership models,

The leadership model they had in front of them in the 1700s and 1800s was two-fold: the Catholic Church and the Army. And for obvious reasons, they chose the Army, which meant leading from the front, a hierarchical structure, with somebody at the top. It worked very well, and it's been working very well till recently. Corporates adopted this model, but in the military itself, the model has changed.

If you go back even two and a half thousand years ago, Alexander the Great led from the front — he's called "the Great" because he never lost a battle. So that is the model which has been there all along. But things have changed now. In the wars you see across the world today, the guys conducting the war are not at the front; they are sitting in Moscow or Kyiv, or Washington D.C., etc. Therefore, the whole psychology of leadership has changed tremendously. It's not about going to the front and trying to show people how brave you are or how you do things. It has moved from brawn to brain and that's why people don't need to be there at the front. You need to be at the back, looking at things, and doing things.

And corporates have done something similar. But now, in the 21st century, corporates are facing a lot of trouble. Trouble because of three things — three things external, and three things internal. You would have seen in your organisations — it starts off with good intentions and things like that. But over a period of time, it accumulates a lot of negatives. And therefore, in organisations — in corporates — three negatives, in my view, have come to extremes. And we need to look at that very seriously.

1) Corporates have been there for a long time, and they have been focussed only on money, money, money. So, corporates only want shareholder value - they don't care about anybody else, they want only to enrich themselves, and forget about anybody else. "How can I become a millionaire, billionaire, or multi-trillionaire?" That's the only focus.

There's nothing wrong with money; money is the thing that helps corporates grow. But I think we have reached a stage where it has come to the extreme

- it has created so much inequality, so much inequality, that it is unsustainable, whether it is the US, India, or anywhere else. I don't think we can have a society like this, because society is going to get fractured. It is already getting fractured. In fact, it's my considered view that Mr. Trump is actually a product of inequality in society.
- 2) In our pursuit of productivity and efficiency and again, mind you, productivity and efficiency are very important for growth and for, kind of, operational effectiveness but in doing so, we have dehumanised human beings. Human beings are not treated as human beings anymore. They are treated as a piece of equipment or pieces of items which you can throw out. You can take away 20,000 people, 30,000 people, 40,000 nobody is bothered, nobody is talking about that. And, what happens to these people?

For example, when the US got de-industrialised, the entire auto industry went into a tailspin. I mean, where the auto industry was — what happened to those people? Therefore, we need to start thinking about these things — increase productivity, yes, but please don't dehumanise.

If these two things are combined, they cause a tremendous amount of stress to organisations, to corporates, and to society. The time has come for us to look at something else.

3) Over-glorification of leadership. Because of this particular model, somebody who is at the top, somebody being the face, we have over-glorified leadership, as if he alone is the one who is doing everything, because all the credit is ascribed to that one person, which is not correct. It's never the reality. But this over-glorification of leadership has again reached an extreme, where I think we need to set the balance right.

Winners aim for nothing less than Gold.

The same mindset can add the gilt edge to your portfolio.

Now, three external things which have changed dramatically, especially in this 21st century — and that's why it is even more important.

1) Uncertainty and unpredictability were always there, all along, but the kind of intensity of that uncertainty, unpredictability, and disruptions which have come in the 21st century has been enormous. They are mind-boggling. And they are happening simultaneously. Whether it is man-made disasters like wars, or whether it's earthquakes and things like that, or whether it's technological disruptions — whatever you look at, things have become extremely uncertain.

In this kind of uncertainty, a rigid, parametrical, hierarchical organisation cannot work. You can understand that it will get shaken, because it's a rigid thing, and therefore, you need to have more flexible, adaptive, proactive, and fast-reacting organisations.

- 2) Information, especially in the last 10 years it's been happening in the last 20 years but more so in the last 10 years, even before AI came into reckoning the information load has become so much. First, information used to go at a slow rate. Now, in the 21st century, information has increased at a rapid speed. And in this kind of situation, it is impossible for one person to be seized of all the things and be taking decisions. Therefore, you need to have distributed leadership. You can't be saying, "I know all; I know everything." You need to have distributed leadership. You need to have more people who will be absorbing from the environment, telling things, and working together. Therefore, you need to create a team.
- 3) In my view, the most important one: today's generation especially millennials and Gen Z, all of you have grandchildren or children if you ask them whether they would like to work under a command-and-control type of organisation, I can tell you, there is only one answer and that's "no." And I have tested this across the world. This is my 91st interaction on the book, on the philosophy of the book, and I've seen this in the UK, in Singapore, in Ireland, in Dubai, in India and in all parts of the country.

There's only one answer: "No, we will not work." Therefore, you need to think of a very different kind of leadership. And the kind of leadership that I'm proposing, for want of a better word, is leading from the back.

Rtn. Manjeet: Thanks, Ravi. That's a very good explanation about why this is the right time for this book — uncertainty, unpredictability, and complexity in the current environment.

So, I'm going to ask you to describe leading from the back. You've described it in a very simple way: $3 \times 3 \times 3$ — three lines and three ways to react to them. So we're going to put it up on the screen, but I'm going to ask you to describe it, and then we'll go into different details about how you talked about this in the book.

Rotary Club of Bombay's Adult Literacy Programme featured in RID Anirudh Roy Chowdhury's bi-monthly magazine

Adult Literacy: Building a Brighter Future for All

The Rotary Club of Bombay is leading a transformative initiative to eradicate adult illiteracy and promote functional education across India. This pioneering project aims to empower adults-especially women-through the Each One Teach Manymodel, a scalable and sustainable approach to literacy.

The Adult Literacy Program is designed to promote and strengthen the education of non-literate adults, enabling them to achieve functional literacy within just three months. For only INR 275 per adult, the program provides an NCERTapproved Primer Kit with books and flashcards, stationery, final examination facilitation, graduation certificates, and administrative support. This nominal cost ensures that learners receive quality educational tools while keeping literacy affordable and accessible.

By the end of the program, learners acquire a vocabulary of approximately 700 key words, which is sufficient for day-to-day activities such as reading bus destination signs, filling out bank deposit and withdrawal slips, and reading newspaper headlines. They also gain basic numeracy skills that enable them to manage household and personal accounts, along with the ability to read and write with confidence.

In addition to teaching reading, writing, and arithmetic, the program introduces learners to the advantages of various government welfare schemes such as Aadhar, Pradhan Mantri Yojanas, and other important social and financial inclusion programs. ensures that newly literate adults are not only educated but also informed and empowered to access resources that can improve their lives.

In a country grappling with poverty, casteism, gender inequality, and inadequate access to education, adult literacy acts as a powerful catalyst for change. The completion of this program leads to enhanced self-confidence, improved employment opportunities, upliftment of families and communities, greater political and civic participation, smaller and better-educated families, and meaningful poverty reduction, contributing to long-term social transformation.

Since its inception, President Satyan Israni, PDG Sandip Agarwalla, PP Vineet Bhatnagar and Committee Chair Rtn Runit Shah from the Rotary Club of Bombay have successfully educated over 1,05,000 women through this initiative, creating a ripple effect of empowerment and progress across communities in India.

A Day of Impact: The Rotary Foundation's Laura Bradley Witnesses Global Grants in Action at Masina Hospital

The Rotary Club of Bombay had the distinct honor of hosting Ms. Laura Bradley, Regional Grants Officer of The Rotary Foundation, for an insightful day dedicated to showcasing the transformative power of Rotary's Global Grant projects. The visit centered around a comprehensive guided tour of the various initiatives supported by the Rotary Club of Bombay at Masina Hospital, a testament to the enduring commitment of Rotarians to community welfare

Ms. Bradley was warmly welcomed and accompanied throughout the tour by a distinguished delegation, Dr. Gustad Daver - Head of Advisory Board & Trustee and Mr. Khushrow Major - CEO, at Masina Hospital, President Satyan Israni of the Rotary Club of Bombay, District Governor Chetan Desai, Past President Vijay Jatia, District Chief Coordinator Radhika Mehta, and Rtn. Paritosh Rungta. Together, they navigated the hospital, highlighting the tangible impact of Global Grants in areas such as enhanced medical equipment, improved healthcare infrastructure, and specialized training programs, all designed to uplift the quality of care provided to patients.

"It's truly inspiring to see firsthand how the dedication and strategic planning of the Rotary Club of Bombay, combined with the support of The Rotary Foundation, are making such a significant difference in people's lives here at Masina Hospital," remarked Ms. Bradley during her tour. "The scope and effectiveness of these projects are a shining example of Rotary's mission in action."

President Satyan Israni expressed his gratitude for Ms. Bradley's visit, stating, "We are incredibly proud of the work we've accomplished at Masina Hospital through the Global Grants. Her presence today not only validates our efforts but also provides invaluable feedback that will help us further refine our future initiatives."

Following the comprehensive tour of Masina Hospital, the day culminated in a delightful dinner hosted by the Rotary Club of Bombay in honor of Ms. Bradley. The elegant gathering saw the presence of numerous Rotarians from the Rotary Club of Bombay and other clubs within the district, fostering an atmosphere of camaraderie and shared purpose.

A highlight of the evening was the much-appreciated presence of Ms. Megan Anderson, Director of Strategy, Rotary International. Her participation underscored the global significance of the work being done at the grassroots level and the strong connection between Rotary International and its constituent clubs.

The dinner provided an excellent platform for Ms. Bradley and Ms. Anderson to engage with local Rotarians, discussing best practices, future opportunities for collaboration, and the evolving landscape of global grant projects. The conversations were rich with ideas and a shared passion for service above self.

The day spent with Laura Bradley was more than just a tour; it was a powerful affirmation of the vital role The Rotary Foundation plays in empowering Rotary clubs worldwide to address critical community needs. The visit to Masina Hospital served as a compelling demonstration of how strategic partnerships and dedicated efforts can lead to lasting, positive change, embodying the very spirit of Rotary.
