President's Message

Dear Fellow Rotarians Anns and Annets,

“It’s simple. The more members we have, the more people we can help. A stronger membership base will result in stronger communities.”- Gary C K Huang

As we begin the new Rotary Year 2025–26, I am filled with immense gratitude and pride for the enthusiasm and commitment each of you has shown in making a vibrant start to our journey together.

July has been a truly inspiring month — one that sets the tone for what promises to be another remarkable year for our club.

We held four weekly meetings, a Club Assembly, and a Board Meeting — each marked by strong participation, fellowship, and purpose. The highlight of the month was undoubtedly our Installation Ceremony, a memorable event that brought together Rotarians, Anns, and well-wishers to celebrate leadership, continuity, and our shared Rotary spirit. The energy and warmth displayed that evening reaffirmed our collective commitment to “Create Hope in the World.

”We also initiated several meaningful projects, including Oppol District Projects – Shreya, Vidya, and Mothers’ Touch, reflecting our dedication to Service above Self and our continued focus on community impact. In addition, we launched a unique program titled “Beyond Rotary”, aimed at recognizing the outstanding achievements of Rotarians, Anns, and Associates in their careers, professions, and contributions to society.

I extend my heartfelt thanks to all Rotarians and Anns for your wholehearted support, participation, and teamwork throughout this first month. Your active involvement remains the true strength of our club. Let us continue this momentum and work hand in hand to make this Rotary year one filled with service, fellowship, and joy. Together, let us keep the Suburban spirit shining bright!

Yours in Rotary,

HOW TO WIN ACCEPTABILITY IN AN ORGANIZATION

PAG Rtn. Dr. N.R.U.K. Kartha

District Chairman – Vidya (under OPPOL District Project)
Rotary Year 2025-2026

Preamble

An organization, institution, or establishment may comprise members of different ages, genders, and nationalities, each possessing unique aptitudes, tastes, and experiences. They may speak different languages, follow varied work cultures, and observe distinct food habits and social practices. As in the case of Rotary International or other voluntary organizations or business establishments, each entity operates with its own vision, mission, goals, management style, evaluation practices, motivational systems, and member welfare procedures. All said and done, acceptability — both internal and external — is essential for achieving efficiency, ownership, effectiveness, camaraderie, synergy, and overall job satisfaction. Together, these lead to guaranteed growth and a healthy, enduring organizational atmosphere.

The key factors that contribute to generating acceptability include:

- * Polite and dignified behavior
- * Mutual respect and genuine concern for others
- * Knowledge, attitude, and willingness to help
- * Avoiding actions that injure, insult, or intrude into others' affairs
- * Refraining from unnecessary criticism or pointing out mistakes with wrong motives

Becoming Acceptable to Others

To prepare ourselves to become acceptable to others, we can begin with the following actions:

1. Be acceptable to yourself first — and then to your close friends, family, relatives, neighbors, and associates.
2. To understand and enhance our acceptability, we should carry out a SWOT Analysis (Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats). Identifying our areas of improvement (instead of calling them weaknesses) helps reduce distractions that distance others from us.
3. Next, list down what, which, or who your threats are. This improves confidence, enabling us to face challenges with courage, agility, and good intent.
4. Common threats include reluctance to teamwork, difficulty in appreciating others' good deeds, prioritizing personal interests over organizational welfare, and falling prey to flattery or flowery speech.
5. Equally damaging is the laxity to contribute to organizational progress — remaining silent, avoiding participation, refusing to volunteer, and saying no to progressive efforts.
6. There is no shortcut to greatness. Voluntary admittance of mistakes elevates a person to the metaphorical height of Mount Everest.
7. Once a good percentage of members in an organization become acceptable, others naturally follow.
8. The takeaways of total acceptability include enhanced public image, higher professional standing, superior performance standards, reduced absenteeism, cheerful work culture, and employees willingly becoming goodwill ambassadors of their organization.

Conclusion

In this short article, not every point could be covered — but it is certain that readers, especially Rotarians, will be able to add many more valuable insights from their rich experience.

The Value of Rotarians in Society

In every corner of the world, there exists a common thread that binds communities together—the spirit of service. Within Rotary, this spirit finds its most meaningful expression through the dedication and compassion of Rotarians. Their value to society goes far beyond the projects they complete or the funds they raise; it lies in their unrelenting commitment to making the world a better place, one thoughtful action at a time.

A Rotarian is not defined merely by membership, but by mindset — a mindset rooted in empathy, ethics, and excellence.

Whether it is eradicating disease, supporting education, empowering women, protecting the environment, or uplifting the underprivileged, Rotarians bring purpose and professionalism to every sphere of service. They lead by example, showing that true leadership is not about position, but about participation.

The value of Rotarians in society is reflected in the quiet changes they bring—the clean water in a distant village, the smile of a vaccinated child, the dignity restored to a struggling family, or the hope rekindled in a student's heart. These acts may seem small in isolation, but together they create a ripple effect that strengthens communities and unites people across boundaries.

Rotary's guiding principle — Service Above Self — continues to remind us that progress is most powerful when it is shared. In an age when society is often driven by self-interest, Rotarians stand as beacons of integrity, compassion, and global fellowship. Their voluntary service bridges divides of language, culture, and belief, reaffirming that humanity thrives

As Editor, I am proud to witness how our Rotarians in the Rotary Club of Trivandrum Suburban embody these values every day — not just through their service projects, but through their humility, teamwork, and unwavering sense of responsibility toward others. Their actions define Rotary's value to society: not in grand gestures, but in the consistent effort to make life better for someone else.

The true measure of a Rotarian's worth cannot be written in numbers or awards. It lives in the gratitude of those they serve and in the example they set for generations to come. Indeed, the value of a Rotarian is the value of humanity itself — selfless, compassionate, and ever-evolving in the pursuit of peace and goodwill.

Global Rotary News

Rotary Initiative Supports Midwives in Remote Communities

Empowering women, saving lives, and building global connections

In an inspiring effort to address the global maternal health crisis, Rotary members have stepped forward to support midwives who play a crucial role in saving lives. Around 830 women and 7,000 newborns — mostly in low- and middle-income countries — die each day due to complications related to pregnancy and childbirth. The heartbreaking reality is that most of these deaths are preventable.

Recognizing that midwives are key to reducing maternal and infant mortality, Rotary clubs have launched a groundbreaking initiative that strengthens their leadership and professional networks. The Papua New Guinea Midwifery Leadership Buddy Project, a collaboration between Rotary members, the Australian College of Midwives, and the Papua New Guinea Midwifery Society, has already made a significant impact.

As of April 2025, the project has empowered 52 midwives from Papua New Guinea and 31 from Australia to enhance their leadership, advocacy, and clinical skills. The program brings together pairs of midwives from both countries for five-day leadership workshops, followed by yearlong community health projects designed and implemented in Papua New Guinea with ongoing mentorship from their Australian counterparts.

Project organizer Judith Brown, a retired midwife and past president of the Rotary Club of Morialta, South Australia, emphasizes that the exchange is reciprocal and collaborative, fostering mutual respect and cultural understanding. “The partnership enables midwives to learn from one another’s strengths,” Brown says, “but the primary focus is trying to help women have a voice—in both countries.”

The outcomes extend far beyond training sessions. From supplying essential medical equipment to tackling challenges like teen pregnancy, the initiative has left lasting footprints in the participating communities. Yet, beyond the tangible results, the program’s greatest achievement lies in the bonds of friendship and solidarity formed among midwives who share a passion for improving maternal health and saving lives.

At its heart, this Rotary initiative exemplifies the organization’s enduring mission—to create hope, empower communities, and change lives across borders.

Eco-brick by Eco-brick, Interactors in Peru Learn the Magic of Rotary

Building sustainability, leadership, and connections — one eco-brick at a time

In Lima, Peru, Rotary's spirit of service and creativity is being passed on to a new generation — one eco-brick at a time.

Raquel Lozano Fernández, the 2024–25 President of the Rotary Club of Lima and adviser to the Interact Club of Abraham Valdelomar, guided a group of enthusiastic Interactors on an ambitious mission with two goals: to protect the environment and to inspire young leaders.

The Interactors collected plastic bottles and other recyclable materials to create durable eco-bricks, which they then used to build tables and chairs for Bellavista School in Independencia, a municipality north of Lima's city center. This not only promoted environmental sustainability but also gave the students a sense of accomplishment and teamwork.

The project didn't stop at construction. The Interactors invited Bellavista students to participate in crafting the eco-brick furniture, teaching them the importance of recycling and resourcefulness. Alongside these activities, they organized "la gincana" — a series of fun, connection-based games, songs, and activities — through which they conducted social-emotional workshops, helping the younger students learn empathy and confidence while the Interactors honed their leadership and mentoring skills.

By the end of the project, the laughter and camaraderie among the older and younger students showed the true impact of the initiative — learning, bonding, and building a better world together.

This prestigious event recognizes and honors the remarkable achievements, leadership, and community service projects undertaken by Rotary clubs, presidents, and secretaries during the Rotary year.

The AADHARAV 2025 – District Awards Nite was held on July 13, 2025, at The Leela Ashtamudi, A Raviz Hotel, Kollam. The event beautifully captured the Rotary International theme for the year — 'The Magic of Rotary' — celebrating the dedication and impact of Rotarians who bring positive change to society.

Purpose

The event serves as a platform to celebrate excellence in Rotary leadership and service, inspiring members to continue their humanitarian efforts with renewed passion and commitment.

Key Highlights and Initiatives

Aadharav showcased the diverse range of impactful community service initiatives carried out by clubs across the district. Some of the notable focus areas included:

- Disease Prevention and Treatment: Rotary clubs undertook several health-related initiatives such as donating ventilators and dialysis machines to hospitals and organizing free dialysis programs for the underprivileged.
- Maternal and Child Health: Noteworthy efforts included proposals for setting up a Human Milk Bank and implementing cervical cancer prevention programs, promoting women's and children's health.
- Community Development and Empowerment: Rotarians actively supported women's empowerment through projects such as safe homes for women, working women's hostels, and skill development training in tailoring, DTP, and beauty care. Microcredit initiatives and the distribution of pushcarts and Pink E-autos to women vendors further strengthened their economic independence.
- Environmental Protection: Environmental initiatives focused on promoting organic vegetable cultivation, urban gardening, installation of solar panels in homes, and driving efforts to make Panchayaths plastic-free.
- Disaster Relief: Rotary clubs in Kollam and nearby areas extended timely support to those affected by natural calamities, showcasing the Rotary spirit of compassion in action.
- Literacy and Education: Educational programs aimed at enhancing general literacy, digital literacy, and creating awareness on cyber safety were also key areas of focus.

Inspiring Service, Building the Future

The Aadharav District Awards Nite stands as a powerful reminder of the transformative impact of Rotary service. It not only celebrates the milestones achieved but also motivates every Rotarian to continue spreading the 'Magic of Rotary' through selfless service and community engagement.
