Very Good Evening Rotarians,

The Club activities related to the nourishment, learning and sports occupied the centre stage in the second week of the Rotary month August. A well nourished body and brain functions better, supports cognitive development, enhances focus and memory. A balanced diet consisting balanced proportion of carbohydrate, protein, iron, zink, vitamin B complex micronutrients like riboflavin, methylcobalamin, phosphorus play crucial role in development, co-ordination and functioning of the faculties of the body.

Regular physical activities with proper amount of good rest through sleep boosts the physical and mental faculties, which in turn prepares a body and mind for the day today challenges in progressive life. The sports develops focus discipline, good communication and creativity in thought and planning. This habit instills discipline, teamwork, good productive efforts, in academic, athletic, and practical life. The positive faculties dissipate the accruing stresses and anxiety.

These community guided programmes encourages spread of this message to a larger section of people cutting across the horizontal and /or vertical divisions. The cumulative effect of balance amongst nourishment, learning and sports is positive, constructive and good for society.
