Very Good Evening Rotarians,

This Rotary month of November is dedicated to the areas of health, hygiene, prevention and cure of adversely affected persons. The subject of hygiene is equally important for both, male and female.

In case of female, menstrual hygiene plays a crucial role to maintain reproductive health, and poor practices can enhance the risk of infections and long term health issues, which includes cervical cancer. In many parts of the world, women and girls face challenges in accessing clean water, sanitation facilities, and menstrual products, leading to unhygienic practices during menstruation. This can result in bacterial and fungal infections, which may contribute to the development of cervical abnormalities and increase the risk of cervical cancer.

The human papillomavirus (HPV) is a primary cause of cervical cancer, and certain factors related to menstrual hygiene such as the use of unclean menstrual products or inadequate genital hygiene, may increase the risk of HPV infection. Furthermore, poor menstrual hygiene practices may lead to chronic inflammation and infections, which may contribute to the development of cervical abnormalities. By promoting good menstrual hygiene practices, such as using clean and safe menstrual products, practicing genital hygiene, and accessing regular health check-ups, women can reduce their risk of cervical cancer.

Improving menstrual hygiene requires a multi faceted approach that includes education, access to affordable menstrual products, and safe sanitation facilities. Govrnments, communities and individuals must work together to create an environment that supports menstrual health and hygiene. By prioritizing menstrual hygiene and promoting healthy practices, we can empower women and girls to manage their reproductive health, reduce the risk of cervical cancer and live healthier , more dignified lives. Regular cervical screening and HPV vaccination do reduce the menace of cervical cancer. Our club has been implementing the needful Projects in this direction to healp build a healthy community.
