APRIL IS DESIGNATED AS ENVIRONMENT MONTH IN ROTARY

CELEBRATION OF BENGALI NEW YEAR & ROTARY FAMILY DINNER

Borshobaran by Members & Annes

EDITORIAL:

April is designated as Environment Month in Rotary International, a dedicated period when clubs worldwide focus on strengthening the conservation and protection of natural resources, enhancing ecological sustainability, and fostering harmony between communities and the environment. Officially added as Rotary's seventh area of focus in 2020, this month highlights the understanding that environmental health is essential for disease prevention, economic development, and lasting peace.

Key Themes & Focus Areas

During April, Rotary members accelerate projects aimed at reversing damage to ecosystems and tackling the climate crisis. Key initiatives include:

- Protecting Ecosystems: Restoring land, coastal, marine, and freshwater resources.
- Climate Change Action: Reducing greenhouse gas emissions and strengthening community resilience to climate impacts.
- Sustainable Practices: Supporting sustainable agriculture, fishing, and aquaculture.
- Waste Management: Initiatives like "End Plastic Soup" and recycling drives.
- Education and Advocacy: Supporting environmental education and advocating for sustainable consumption.

In this month, we celebrated Bengali's New Year Day (Borso Baron) in our RWM on 30th April. Our members and Annes participated in this celebration.
