THEME

APRIL IS MATERNAL AND CHILD HEALTH MONTH

- Over the last 20 years, the world has seen promising improvements in maternal health, with the global maternal mortality rate decreasing by over 30%.

However, these gains have not been universally sustained – with maternal deaths rising over time in the United States and spiking 40% between 2020 and 2021 due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Additionally, the remaining burden of maternal mortality is not equally distributed – with 95% of maternal deaths occurring in low and lower-middle-income countries.

Within this context of unequal progress, driven by global and national inequities in access to and quality of care, it's time to return to proven strategies for saving birthing people's lives, which will in turn positively contribute to our society, economy, and families.
