BARABATI

Today's Programme - "Club members sharing their experience at District Leadership Learning Seminar".

"Beyond the Celebratory Social Media Posts"

She wakes before the morning learns
 How heavy silence feels,
 Boils tea with tired, trembling hands,
 And hides what sorrow steals—
 A mother masters smiling wounds.
 She serves the warmest part of bread,
 Keeps hunger for her own,
 Remembers birthdays, fevers, fears,
 Yet eats and weeps alone—
 Her love is loud, her name grows faint.
 The house rests softly on her spine,
 Though no one seems to see
 How many dreams she folded small
 Between the laundry heap and tea—
 A queen uncrowned in her own home.
 And still, on Mother's Day, they post
 Bright flowers, hearts, and praise,
 While she still longs for gentler words
 On ordinary days—
 For love should live beyond bouquets.
