World Alzheimer's Day

21st September

Sneha Sawali

Today, on World Alzheimer's Day,

We want to acknowledge the brave journeys of our loved ones affected by this relentless disease. To our friends who've seen their family members fade away with their memories.

Alzheimer's steals memories, but it can't take away the love, laughter, and moments we shared. Hold on to those precious moments; they're the threads that weave your loved one's legacy.

Let's honor their memories, support research, and advocate for awareness. Together, we can make a difference.
