In a garage outside Salinas, California, young people who are learning to restore classic cars are doing more than developing a skill — they are reclaiming their futures. This training program provides mentorship and, for some, a path away from gang involvement toward meaningful employment. Graduates leave with certifications, practical experience, and hope.

This is what Rotary's Vocational Service Month celebrates each January — the power of bringing together people with unique skills to do good in the world. It reminds us that integrity isn't just about our actions matching our words. Integrity is in everything we do.

The California automotive program has been such a success because it was built on integrity. Members of the Rotary Club of Carmel-by-the-Sea didn't assume they knew what the community needed. They listened. They learned there was a shortage of skilled mechanics as well as a large number of young people lacking job training. They recognized that technical skills alone wouldn't be enough, so they partnered with Rancho Cielo, a nonprofit offering counseling and support services alongside vocational training.

That is The Four-Way Test in action. Those four simple questions help us not judge others but guide us toward genuine, effective service.

Consider our commitment to ending polio. For nearly 40 years, we have promised the world's children we will eliminate this disease. Despite obstacles, we persist, and today we are closer to defeating the virus.

Francesco Arezzo

Rotary
International
President,
2025-26

Keeping this promise is the very definition of integrity.

The same integrity must drive our vocational service. With 1.2 billion young people in emerging economies reaching working age in the next decade and only 420 million jobs projected, we face a critical gap. Communities long excluded from economic opportunities need our support.

But support doesn't mean imposing our will. It means listening to local needs, building partnerships, and designing projects that communities can sustain themselves.

You have knowledge that can transform lives. Whatever your profession, your expertise combined with Rotary's values creates lasting change. The question isn't whether you have something to offer, it's how you'll use your skills to serve.

This January, I encourage you to ask how your club can address vocational needs in your community. What skills do your members have that could change someone's life? How can your networks open doors for young people? What partnerships can create sustainable jobs?

Let integrity guide you. Let The Four-Way Test light your path. And let the young people in California and the multitudes worldwide who need job skills remind you why vocational service matters.

Let us celebrate putting our professional skills to work for humanity with integrity at the heart of everything we do.

ROTARY

1979 - Rotary International launches its First polio immunization project in the Philippines, vaccinating over 6 million children.

1985 - Rotary officially announces the PolioPlus Program, the first and largest internationally coordinated private-sector effort to immunize children against polio.

1988 - Rotary partners with the World Health Organization (WHO), UNICEF, and CDC to launch the Global Polio Eradication Initiative (GPEI).

At this time, polio paralyzed over 350,000 children annually in 125 countries.

1994 - The Americas are certified polio-free, marking the first WHO region to eliminate polio.

2000 - The Western Pacific Region, including China, is declared polio-free.

2005 - Rotary becomes a key supporter of National Immunization Days in polio-endemic countries.

END POLIO NOW

TIMELINE

2012 - India, once considered the most challenging country for polio eradication, reports its last polio case.

2014 - The South-East Asia Region, including India, is officially certified polio-free — a historic milestone.

2016 - Global cases of wild polio drop by 99.9% compared to 1988.

2020 - The African Region is certified free of wild poliovirus, leaving only two endemic countries.

2023 Present - Polio remains endemic in only two countries: Afghanistan and Pakistan.

Rotary continues vaccination campaigns, advocacy, and fundraising under the END POLIO NOW banner.

Impact at a Glance

- > 3 billion children vaccinated
- > 122+ countries made polio-free
- > USD 2.6+ billion contributed by Rotary
- > Strong global partnerships saving millions from paralysis

Who is Affected?

Unless we eradicate polio, within 10 years, as many as 200,000 new cases could occur around the world each year. In the past few years, only two countries have reported cases of polio caused by the wild virus, but no child anywhere is safe until we've vaccinated every child.

Kolhapuri Misal : A Fiery Bowl of Maharashtra's Pride

In Maharashtra, food isn't just about taste—it's about temperament. And if there's one dish that perfectly captures the bold, no-nonsense spirit of the region, it's Kolhapuri Misal. Spicy, comforting, and unapologetically intense, this dish is more than breakfast food; it's a cultural statement.

Kolhapuri Misal stands apart from other versions of misal found across Maharashtra. While places like Pune or Nashik offer milder, slightly sweet variations, Kolhapur keeps things raw and fiery. The star of the dish is the rassa—a deep red, spice-heavy gravy made using Kolhapuri masala, dry coconut, garlic, onions, and a generous helping of red chilies. The heat isn't accidental; it's intentional, reflecting Kolhapur's love for strong flavors.

At the base of the dish is usal, usually prepared with sprouted moth beans cooked till soft but not mushy. This is topped with crunchy farsan (or chivda), finely chopped onions, fresh coriander, and a squeeze of lemon. What truly completes the experience is the serving of soft pav or thick bhakri on the side, perfect for soaking up the spicy rassa.

Eating Kolhapuri Misal is an experience in itself. The first spoonful hits you with heat, followed by layers of flavor—earthy, smoky, and deeply satisfying. Locals often say that if misal doesn't make your eyes water a little, it's not the real thing. And yet, despite the spice, people keep coming back for more.

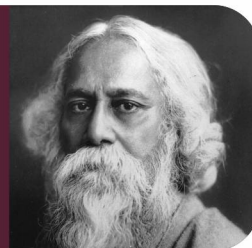

Beyond taste, Kolhapuri Misal carries a strong sense of identity. It's commonly eaten in the early morning, especially by workers and travelers who need something filling and energizing. Small eateries across Kolhapur serve misal with pride, each claiming their recipe is the most authentic. Some have been doing it the same way for generations.

In recent years, Kolhapuri Misal has gained popularity beyond Maharashtra, finding its way into restaurants across India. Still, nothing quite compares to eating it in Kolhapur itself—standing at a local joint, breathing in the aroma of spices, and enjoying a plate that tells a story of tradition, resilience, and boldness.
