The unstoppable power of your small daily choices

My focus once in life for some time was on my career, and this book The Compound Effect by Darren Hardy made me consider the application of this idea to all aspects of my life. I began to focus on smaller, but equally important goals such as spending quality time with friends or time outside connecting with nature. Once I began a daily practice of remembering these habits, I found over time that all aspects of my life were moving forward in a positive way. To have the life we all envision, all aspects of our lives — health, career, relationships, and state of mind — need to be brought to light and consciously acted upon in a positive way. So how do we do this without feeling like we have an overwhelming list of things to do each day?

Be proactive with your time: Time goes on. But what you do with your time is what makes the difference between reaching your goals or not, whether your goal is losing 5 kgs of weight or saving for a house. Whatever your goals may be, it is the small actions repeated daily that will make the difference in your success – and in your experience of life on your way to that goal. All the small decisions you made in the past are how you got to where you are in life now.

Are they lucky or did they work hard?: We look at people who have “made it” – the people who are millionaires or multiple-time world champions or totally at peace or have the perfect body or are in the perfect relationship or whatever it may be – and it is easy to think this happened overnight or that they are genetic freaks or they just “got lucky.” But more than likely, these people had spent years working hard to achieve these levels of awesomeness. Each day these hard-working, driven people get up an hour earlier to go to the gym, or allocate quality time with their children or spouse, or make the time for some mindful meditation. That is why they have succeeded.

I believe all your dreams can come true if you actively make it happen through conscious choices that bring you closer to your goal at every moment.

- Ann. Nivetha Amlani

Dr. Deepa Raja's brave acceptance of challenge

Q) You are a multifaceted personality. You did Homeopathy, did all the learning about Dyslexia yourself, you have represented India at the international level, and your book is also going to be published. I would like to know your entire journey at Rotary. How did Rotary help you? What was the contribution of Amit Raja and your son Hitarth?

A) I am a gold-medallist in Homeopathy from Mehsana Homeopathy Medical College. Since childhood, I always had a keen interest in learning. My dad had a travelling agency so I decided to do IATA training along with my Homeopathy studies. I went to Mumbai for 2 months for the training. I was the 1st person in Gujarat to pass the examination. All this was around 1994.

I was in my 2nd year when I got engaged. I was determined to continue with studies and was not ready for marriage. I shared this with my to-be husband who supported my decision and kept his promise that my studies will not suffer come what may. I was doing an internship with Madhuram Hospital and was already pregnant during that time. I got infected with Rubella infection during my pregnancy and was completely bed-ridden. I am a medical person myself. I started reading more about Rubella and realized that my child would have some deformities. I started gave affirmations to my unborn child. I read a lot of good books.

There were no major changes until my son turned three. After that few changes occurred. His milestones were late, even after 3 years, he did not crawl. When he was 4, I got a call from his teacher that my child can't learn alphabets. He has issues with firm grip. Teachers at SNK denied to teach him further.

I was devastated and couldn't understand why it was difficult for my child to learn. My husband, on the contrary, had a positive attitude. We shifted Hitarth to RKC. All this was happening during a time when Dyslexia was not well-known. Whatever medication we did was Homeopathy and we did not do any proper test. I began to learn more about this deformity from the cases that I attended during my internship. My knowledge of dyslexia was raw and based on Homeopathy.

There was a workshop on dyslexia that I attended at RKC. Here I realized that my son was showing similar symptoms. I immediately took a doctor's appointment and went to Mumbai to get the tests done. Severe Dyslexia was diagnosed. I was heartbroken because when it comes to your child, it's always a breaking point. It took me a while to accept but then I decided to shed no more tears and take things in my hands. People were not aware of this problem and believe that it's a mental problem. Dealing with such people was difficult. But my family was very supportive.

I went to RKC and proposed to be a part of their team and assist other students with such deformity. Mr Khan agreed to the plan. This was a bold decision. I was a mother calling. I gave up my growing career in Homeopathy and started working here. Meanwhile, Hitarth's therapy started in Mumbai. It was a taxing journey for us.

I decided to go to the UK for further therapy. It was a daring decision from my side. I had issues with everyone including my husband to go to the UK alone but I was adamant to take this step for my child. I wanted my child to get the right direction. This was the time of no internet. I just knew about Dyslexia Institute UK. My brother was in London and he helped there. There I saw Hitarth dealing confidently with other kids there. Seeing him I made a promise to myself that come what may, I will never let his confidence down. Every 6 months we went there for the therapy.

Here at RKC, Mr Khan rendered his full support in starting a centre there. I started working at SNK as well. I started working on the improvement of other students with Dyslexia. Once I fought for a student who was being removed from the school. That boy is a Dentist today!

Hitarth was shifted back to SNK where he repeated the 3rd grade. His teacher was extremely supportive and so were his peers. Talking about this change from Hitarth's perspective, it was a difficult journey. He had to work very hard to prove himself. The time he took in reading and writing was double than his friends. His therapy sessions went on until his 10th grade. The gap between his IQ and literacy rate was huge, His IQ was above average but the literacy rate was below average. He still faces difficulty in reading and writing but technology helps. Also, the best thing is he has embraced his drawbacks and openly accepts them. He is very confident in what he is.

Q) What is your vision ahead for Dyslexia kids?

A) I want to reach out to more and more people majorly in the rural parts. I want to fetch Einsteins from such places and make people aware.
