DID YOU KNOW??

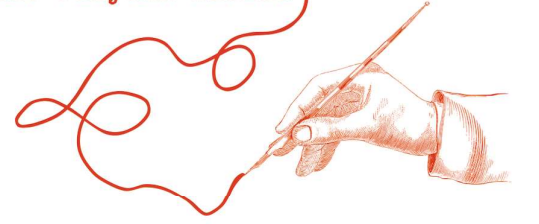

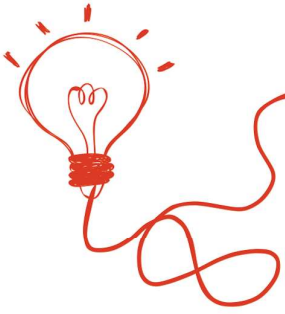

There is a Rotary meeting being held someplace in the world every hour of every day. If you attended one meeting per day, it would take nearly 80 years to visit all of the more than 46,000 Rotary clubs in the world, and by that time, no doubt, there would be thousands more new clubs to attend

What is Cloud Storage?

Let me ask you a question, where does a file or a photo go when you save it on your computer or your phone? The simplest answer is that when you save it on your computer, it lives in the computer hard drive in a folder that you have created and organised. Same is with the phone, it stays on your device in the folder that you select. You can also save it by sending yourself an email or saving it on an external device like a CD, pen drive, hard disk, etc.

Now let us talk about the much heard but not well understood term, Cloud! At its most basic level, "the cloud" is just fancy word for a network of connected servers. And a server is simply a computer that provides data or services to other computers. So when you save files to the cloud, you can access it from any computer or phone connected to that cloud's network.

The cloud is not just a few servers connected together with wires. It is actually a system that is made up of thousands of servers (computers) typically stored in a huge warehouse or several hundred huge warehouses. These warehouses are guarded and managed by companies capable of storing these massive loads of data, likes Google (Google Drives), Apple (iCloud), and Dropbox. The cloud therefore as presumed by many, is not a shapeless thing, it is physical, tangible and real.

When you save files to the cloud, you can access them on any computer, provided it's connected to the Internet and you're signed into your cloud services platform. Take for example Google Drive. If you use Gmail, you can access Drive anywhere you can access your email. Sign in to one computer or phone with your credentials and you can find your entire library of documents and photos in another.

Now for all those asking if Cloud security is tight, it is but it's not error-free. Cybercriminals can access it by bypassing your password although it is not as easy as it sounds because of encryption. Another risk is Privacy, the data stored on cloud can be legally viewed by government if needed.

But on the flip side storing data on cloud is far more secure than storing data on your phone, computer, external hard disk, CD or pen drives because of risks of malware infection (in simple terms Virus) . Also is cost effective and there is an ease of access.
